A Message from Project Coordinator

The year 2025 has been an important continuation of the fruitful cooperation for the Re-Direction partners. Since the dynamic and comprehensive transnational partners' meeting, hosted by Karlshochschule International University, in Karlsruhe, Germany in March 2025, our partners have actively carried on with their efforts to implement the standards of digital transformation, inclusivity and sustainability in the field of education. Thereafter, with the relevant communication and facilitation between Greek, German, Georgian and Ukrainian institutions, a significant progress has been achieved in the frames of the Re-Direction project. By intensive consultations with various stakeholders such as academic staff, policymakers, employers, etc., the partners have not only accomplished their work on course materials but have created generic and specific courses which are already available on Massive Open Online Courses (MOOC) platform of the project. These topics were widely discussed during the Re-Direction Staff Training, hosted by Ilia State University in Tbilisi, Georgia in October 2025. As a coordinator, we are pleased to assist partner institutions to continue fruitful collaboration in the process of implementing project tasks and deliverables.

We truly believe that European partnerships have the potential to build on more cross-border solidarity and to develop a sense of community despite political and cultural disparities. Re-Direction partnerships is definitely a testament to the resilience of our academic and professional communities in the face of shared challenges.

UPDATES ON MAJOR MILESTONES ACHIEVED

1. Progress Report

The comprehensive progress report contained a detailed information about the tasks and activities which were implemented by the partner institutions in Greece, Germany, Georgia and Ukraine in the frames of Re-Direction project. The progress report covered each major step undertaken by the project team, ranging from methodological framework and skills mismatches to development of inclusive guide and dissemination and exploitation activities related to different stages of the project implementation. Moreover, a video was shot about the progress achieved in the frames of project

2. Consultation Scheme Report

The Re-Direction project partners undertook a large-scale consultation to validate the course materials. This validation process was conducted via a structured questionnaire, gathering responses from a broad spectrum of stakeholders. The project team implemented a structured consultation process to validate the training content. A total of 156 stakeholders participated in this process. The respondents' group included 50 policymakers, 54 academic staff and 52 other stakeholders. The report was completed and approved in June 2025.

3. Creation of MOOC Elearning Platform

One of the most remarkable achievements of the Re-Direction partner organizations of the year 2025 was the creation of MOOC Elearning Platform. With the engagement of each partner institution, particularly the universities, from Ukraine, Georgia, Greece and Germany, the consortium has developed courses in English, Georgian and Ukrainian. Some courses are suitable for students with a variety of academic backgrounds and do not require specific prior knowledge. Others are specialization courses aimed at students from specific disciplines.

4. Mid Term External Evaluation Report

The external evaluation report also has to be highlighted as one of the important aspects for the Re-Direction project in 2025. According to the report, prepared by an independent external evaluator, the project tasks and activities have been executed in a positive way by the partners which creates the prospects for the achievement of the main goals set by the Re-Direction team for future. The report indicated high relevance of the project for the current circumstances taking place in Ukraine and Georgia as well as emphasized the long-term influence of the project for the field of education in both countries. It also made a positive emphasis on effective, efficient and sustainable nature of the project.

Event Highlights

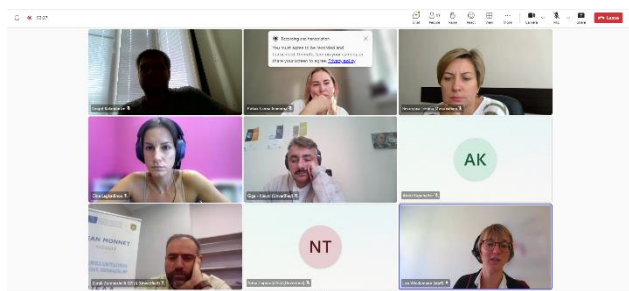

SUMMARIES OF SIGNIFICANT EVENTS

On March 20-21, the Re-Direction project partners had a very interesting and inspirational transnational meeting in Karlsruhe. The partners discussed the materials and administrative-technical aspects of specific and generic courses of MOOC Elearning Platform as well as dissemination and exploitation activities and future steps which they have to undertake in the frames of the project. This meeting brought together 16 partners, including the representatives of Ministries of Education and Science of Georgia and Ukraine.

On October 6-7, the Re-Direction Staff Training was conducted at Ilia State University in Tbilisi. Bringing together more than 30 attendees, both onsite and online, the event discussed inclusivity principles and stakeholder engagement in higher education. Participants explored Elearning on Inclusivity and attended a session on the Operational Arrangements of Piloting, co-led by Karls and Metropolitan College. The event was continued by the workshops on ICT skills, Sustainability, and Elearning course development.

On September 18, Georgian partners of the Re-Direction project held a workshop with the stakeholders about the update of curricula. 36 stakeholders of various background, including policymakers, academic staff, representatives of NGO and enterprise sectors and other relevant experts, engaged actively in the meeting. The event received the 95% positive feedback from the participants.

On March 28, International scientific and practical conference was organized by O. M. Beketov National University of Urban Economy in Kharkiv, under name “Topical Issues of the Economy: Global Trends and Modern Challenges”, in the frames of Re-Direction project. With the 89% positive feedback result, the event gathered 83 participants of various educational and scientific fields from the countries like Germany, Georgia, Vietnam, Turkey, Bulgaria, Ukraine, etc.

Call to Action

HOW READERS CAN GET INVOLVED OR SUPPORT THE PROJECT

The Re-Direction Project thrives on the collaboration, insights, and support of the community. If you're interested in advancing digital and inclusive education, there are several ways to get involved.

For educators and researchers, we welcome your expertise through our quality assurance initiatives, curriculum development efforts, and upcoming workshops. By participating in our events, such as the curriculum adaptation workshops or the Digital Transformation Symposium, you can contribute directly to the evolution of inclusive, future-ready educational models.

Institutions and policymakers can support the project by sharing best practices, engaging in our research discussions, and helping to disseminate findings. Your involvement in our transnational meetings or conferences will be invaluable in amplifying the project's impact and ensuring the successful implementation of its outcomes.

We also encourage readers to connect with us on social media and through our newsletters, where we share updates, resources, and success stories. Together, we can make a lasting impact on higher education, fostering environments that empower both students and faculty.

To get started, visit our website for upcoming events, partnership opportunities, and information on how to participate in Re-Direction's initiatives. Your support, whether through collaboration, feedback, or spreading awareness, will help us create sustainable and inclusive education solutions for the future.
